

Internationally Known Artist:

Juror: Fabio Cembranelli

It was a pleasure to review all these beautiful works by such talented artists. There were many different styles, techniques, and watercolor approaches in the entries: I am glad to see that most of the members worked with transparent pigments and preserved the white of the paper, exploring the transparency, unpredictability, and immediacy of the watercolor medium. I especially enjoy spontaneity and look for that as well as original subjects and interpretations. Developing your own style is what sets you apart from everyone. Congratulations to all awarded winners: you have created cohesive artwork.

The Nevada Watercolor Society's purpose is to encourage and advance watercolor painting through the education of the artists and general public. The Society provides workshops by nationally recognized artists and two juried shows a year. For information visit nevadawatercolorssociety.org
